Part II Reading Comprehension (40 points)

Directions: There are 4 passages in this part. Each passage is followed by 5 questions or unfinished statements. For each of them there are 4 choices marked A, B, C and D. Choose the best one and mark your answer on the ANSWER SHEET with a single bar through the centre of the letter that indicates your choice.

Passage 1

Once upon a time, a man punished his 5-year-old daughter for using up the family's expensive gold wrapping paper. Money was always not enough, and he became even more upset when on Christmas Eve, he saw that the child had pasted the gold paper to decorate a shoebox to put under the Christmas tree.

The next morning the little girl, filled with excitement, brought the gift box to her father and said, "This is for you, Daddy!"

As he saw the box, the father was sorry for his earlier overreaction.

But after he opened it, he found it was empty and again he was angry. "Don't you know, young lady?" he said. "When you give someone a present there's supposed to be something inside the package!"

The little girl looked up at him with tears running from her eyes and said, "Daddy, it's not empty. I blew kisses into it until it was all full."

When the father heard this, he fell on his knees and put his arm around his dear little girl. He begged her to forgive him for his unnecessary anger.

An accident took the life of the child only a short time later. It is told that the father kept that little gold box by his bed for all the years of his life. Whenever he was sad or faced difficult problems he would open the box, take out an imaginary kiss, and remember the love of this beautiful child who had put it there.

In a very real sense, each of us as human beings have been given an invisible golden box filled with love and kisses from our children, family, friends and God. This is the most expensive possession anyone could hold.

11. What can you learn from Paragraph 1?

- A. The family was not rich.
B. The gold wrapping paper is the most expensive thing in his family.
C. The father was sad because of Christmas Eve.
D. The father punished his 5-year-old daughter for the little girl was naughty.

12. In the third paragraph, "overreaction" means _____.

- A. imagination B. a reaction with inappropriate emotional behavior
C. present D. the excessive behavior

13. Why did the father get angry when he opened the gift?

- A. Because the gift was costly.
- B. Because he didn't like the gift.
- C. Because he thought the little girl sent him an empty box.
- D. Because he didn't want to see the gold wrapping paper.

14. What was the gift from the daughter?

- A. Nothing because she was kidding her father.
- B. Some gold wrapping paper.
- C. Kisses from the little girl, which represents her love to Daddy.
- D. The beautifully decorated box itself.

15. Which of the following will be the best title for the passage?

- A. Love Children as Love Yourself
- B. How to Be a Good Father
- C. Empty Boxes Full of Love
- D. Do Not Be Angry with Your Girl

Passage 2

Reading habits look different around the world. In India, the average person devotes 10 hours and 42 minutes to reading per week—which is five hours more than the average person spends in the US. What people choose to read also varies depending on their geographic location.

A study in Switzerland looked at international Google search numbers to determine the most popular book genres in countries where data was available. According to search trends, American readers prefer the classics to other popular categories. Book lovers in New Zealand and Ireland are also searching for older books that tend to be taught in literature classes.

In Latin America, horror and romance are the most popular genres. Scary books dominate in Mexico and Argentina, and love stories win over readers in Brazil. The two genres tie for the No. 1 spot in Venezuela.

Fantasy is another popular genre read around the world, coming out on top in Italy, Germany, and Poland. India, home to the world's most voracious readers, gravitates toward poetry over the other genres.

No matter what your genre of choice is, reading is a great way to feel well-traveled without leaving home, but to achieve effective reading, you will need to read the following tips.

16. According to Paragraph 1, which of the following sentence is NOT true?

- A. In the US, the average person devotes more than 5 hours to reading per week.
- B. In India, the average person devotes more than 10 hours to reading per day.
- C. Reading habits tend to be different around the world.
- D. The average reading hours in India is more than that in America.

17. Which expression means the same with the word "available" in Paragraph 2?

- A. That sb. has the chance to get sth.
- B. That shows the trend.
- C. That provides the true answer.
- D. That can get prompt result.

18. What kind of books do most Mexico residents like to read?

- A. Classics.
- B. Fantasy.
- C. Love stories.
- D. Scary books.

19. Readers from _____ prefer reading poetry.

- A. India
- B. Italy
- C. Poland
- D. Germany

20. After reading the last paragraph, what do you think the author will continue to talk about?

- A. The significance of reading.
- B. Ways to achieve effective reading.
- C. The connections between reading and traveling.
- D. Tips for choosing right books to read.

Passage 3

In Denmark, parents are allowed to set up a new school if they are dissatisfied with the school in the area where they are living. Although these schools have to follow the national courses, they are allowed a lot of choice in deciding what to teach. Some of these new schools are called "small schools" because usually the number of pupils in them is only sixty, but a school has to have at least twenty-seven pupils.

Cooleenbridge School in Ireland, is a small school similar to the ones in Denmark. It was set up by parents who came from Holland, Germany, Czechoslovakia, England and other parts of Ireland. They came because they wanted to live in the countryside and to grow their own food. In June 1986, they decided to start a school. They managed to get an old, disused primary-school building and started with twenty-four children aged from four to twelve.

The teachers say, "The important thing in school is doing, not sitting." And so the courses include yoga, cooking, knitting, kite-making, music, fishing, drama and environmental river studies, as well as reading, writing, math and science.

21. Which of the following is NOT true about the new school set up in Denmark?

- A. The school has a lot of choice in deciding what to teach.
- B. The school has to follow the national courses.
- C. Only educated parents are allowed to set up their own school.
- D. The school has to have at least 27 pupils.

22. The writer tells about the Cooleenbridge School in Ireland because _____.

- A. it was used as a comparison
- B. the pupils there were aged from 4 to 12
- C. it was set up by parents who are not people of Denmark
- D. it was taken as an example of this kind of "small school"

23. What makes this kind of school special?

- A. It was set up by parents not by government.
- B. It is an old, disused primary-school building.
- C. The number of pupils in it is only sixty.
- D. It has to have at least 60 pupils.

24. The sentence "the important thing in school is doing, not sitting" means _____.

- A. children should do more homework at home, not just sit in class to listen to the teachers
- B. children should learn by themselves not rely on teachers
- C. what teachers should do is teaching in the classroom, not sitting in the office
- D. children should learn through practice not just from books

25. Which of the following statements best suits the author's opinion?

- A. Students should have either yoga, cooking, knitting, kite-making, music, fishing, drama and environmental river studies, or reading, writing, math and science.
- B. Students now are having too much burden to learn all kinds of classes.
- C. Students can choose some practical classes such as reading, writing, math and science.
- D. Students should not only have classes such as reading, writing, math and science, but also yoga, cooking, knitting, kite-making, music, fishing, drama and environmental river studies.

Passage 4

In 2020, there were 118 million elderly people living alone in China, 29 million of whom were 80 or above. If even 10 percent of these senior citizens require eldercare services, at least 11.8 million eldercare service positions are needed. Given the above-mentioned characteristics, Chinese-style eldercare is faced with numerous challenges.

First, the country must urgently establish a multilevel, multidimensional and intelligent eldercare services system. Today, most seniors in China prefer home-based care. Ninety percent of seniors take care of themselves at home. About 7 percent rely on community support, and only 3 percent live in nursing homes. At the same time, however, a gap remains between the supply and demand for eldercare with regard to the ability of seniors to pay for these services, as well as numerous disparities in the quality of nursing institutions. Due to bed shortages, for example, mid-range nursing institutions are failing to meet the needs of those who require their services.

Second, the three-pillar structure of China's pension system is out of balance. In 2020, the basic pension insurance fund, the first pillar, accounted for 70 percent of the market. Occupational pension schemes, the second pillar, accounted for nearly 30 percent of the market, and commercial insurance, the third pillar, equaled almost nothing.

Third, the development of the pension industry faces both institutional and conceptual obstacles. This is manifested in a number of ways, including the ambiguous distinction between competitive and noncompetitive industries, a lack of a clear boundary between the government and the market, as well as the inability of private organizations to provide financial support and medical insurance so as to compete with public organizations.

Fourth, the pension system needs to be further improved. At present, development of the second and third pillars of China's pension system is lagging behind, and there are also concerns about the adequacy and sustainability of pension funds.

26. Which of the following is NOT the challenges that Chinese-style eldercare is faced with?

- A. The three-pillar structure of China's pension system is out of balance.
- B. To urgently establish a multilevel and intelligent eldercare services system.
- C. The pension industry faces great obstacles.
- D. The children of the elders are living far away from home.

27. What does the word "seniors" mean in Paragraph 3?

- A. The fourth-year undergraduates.
- B. Old people.
- C. People with disabilities.
- D. Privileged people.

28. Which of the following is NOT true based on the passage?

- A. Most elders in China take care of themselves at home.
- B. Mid-range nursing institutions fail to meet the needs of those who require the services.
- C. Only 3 percent of seniors live in nursing homes.
- D. A large majority of seniors rely on community support for eldercare services.

29. According to the passage, how many elderly people of 80 or above live alone in China in 2020?

- A. 80 million.
- B. 180 million.
- C. 29 million.
- D. 11.8 million.

30. Which accounts for the least in the structure of China's pension system?

- A. The commercial insurance.
- B. The basic pension insurance fund.
- C. The occupational pension schemes.
- D. The second pillar pension.

Part IV Translation (15 points)

Directions: Translate the following passage into Chinese and put your translation on the ANSWER SHEET.

Two similar-sounding English words caused trouble for a man who wanted to fly from Los Angeles to Oakland, California. His problems began at the airport in Los Angeles. He thought he heard his flight announced, so he walked to the gate, showed his ticket, and got on the plane. After flying for twenty minutes, the man began to worry. Oakland was north of Los Angeles, but the plane seemed to be heading west, and when he looked out his window all he could see was ocean. "Is this plane going to Oakland?" he asked the flight attendant. The flight attendant was shocked. "No," she said. "We're going to Auckland—Auckland, New Zealand."
